TORUS GRAPH INFESSION FOR DETECTION OF LOCALIZED ACTIVITY

ABSTRACT

Our goal is to detect localized regions of excessive activity in a network, distinguishing networks that contain such regions from networks whose activity is more homogeneous. We consider inference on torus-based latent position random graphs, using edge density, maximum degree, and other test statistics.